"Ah shucks."

"Hurry up and just take the picture."

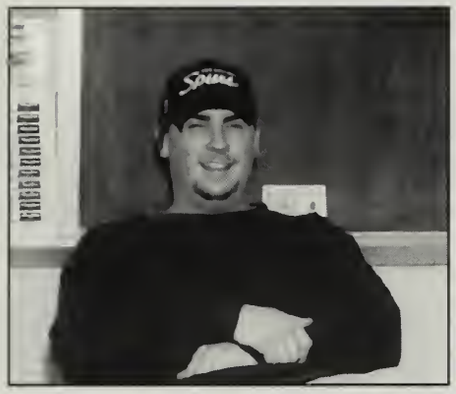
Do you girls have a hall pass?

No Jen, you're supposed to smile for the picture!



"Whatever!"

THE CLASS HISTORY

As we came into the high school we were all a little scared but our first day with just freshmen made us think we were prepared.
The next day however, when we walked down the hall
we realized right away that we didn't know it all.
There were many new faces that stayed for awhile,
like Carnrick, Pugsley and Salazar's gappy smile.
And how could we forget good old Jason Aire,
he was turned down by every girl and still didn't care.
Big Bird and the Penguin came to monitor the halls,
they would stop us for passes and check all the stalls.
We joined sports, activities and all the rest
but we soon learned being die hard wasn't the best.
Being so busy with all this new stuff
made finding free time a little bit tough.
Hazing was ended and that was fine with us.
We didn't have to be tortured while riding the bus.
We remember the day when we got locked into class;
they brought in the dogs and were searching for grass.
It was period 4 when we heard the fire alarm blow,
the boys bathroom was on fire and we were knee deep in snow.
Rocky Point was an unforgettable blast for all,
especially for those who dared go on the free fall.

Now freshmen year was a thing of the past and we all hoped sophomore year would be a huge blast.
It was time to settle down and concentrate on our studies leaving less time for ourselves and hanging with our buddies.
The sports teams records were generally sound
with both boys soccer and field hockey tournament bound.
The football team though, wasn't that great and their record showed it, they were just 1 and 8.
By this time of year academics were in full swing
and many of us realized Cedrone's reputation was the real thing.
Then just like that it was February vacation
and for many of us France was the destination.
Some had a good time while others had it rough and some didn't get off the Metro fast enough.
The year was nearly over, we were almost done
one last push for finals and then summer fun.

Junior year snuck up so fast,
we were upperclassmen now - at last!
The cross country team earned their usual claim to fame and the Drama Club presented one of its best - the Pajama Game.
All of the other clubs were doing just fine,
but the members were dropping - no one had time.
The prom was coming and we needed some dough
so we figured the fruit sale was the way to go.
It's too bad it didn't work out too well,
the idea turned out to be the fund raiser from hell.
The hockey team beat Hanover for the first time in ten years,
the stands were all shaking from the crowds roaring cheers.
When February came, a group went to Spain,
they had such a good time - it was positively insane.
On May sixth, the SAT's were here,
and yes, they lived up to our very worst fear.
Next it was prom time and most of us went while others stayed home, a little bit bent.
Now it was over, summer had arrived
junior hear had ended and we all survived.

We came back to start senior year in the fall
again playing field hockey, soccer, track, and football.
The rest of us joined clubs like drama and art,
and math and computer clubs for those who were smart.
The field hockey team's record was fair but they had fun,
and in their eyes Coach Svenny will always be number one.
The football team's record was just four and six,
but what could you expect without Coach P. to work on their kicks?
The hockey team did great - with so many wins,
thanks to the help from the two Slovakians.
A lot of people went to look at colleges - to make up their minds,
but a decision was one thing most didn't find.
Having no midterms was a break we all needed,
to have no finals, with our teachers we pleaded.
The year brought us alot of laughter and tears,
the tragedies that happened were worse than our worst fears.
The school year was busy, even when we didn't go to school at all,
what with the bomb threats, snow days, and the tragedies in the fall.
But when autumn arrives and we will go our separate ways, we'd like to wish you all the best in your future days.
The past four years have brought many memories and friends,
but like all good things, they have come to an end.
